Legal Community Supports Job Seekers with 2nd Annual “Suits for a Cause” Clothing Drive

Santa Ana, California (May 22, 2012) – Twelve southern California law firms are joining together to sponsor a month long clothing drive called “Suits for a Cause” to support WHW (Women Helping Women/Men2Work). WHW is an Orange County non-profit with the mission of helping disadvantaged and low-income job seekers be successful in their job search. WHW provides business attire and is dedicated to empowering job seekers with the critical job search skills needed to become economically self-sufficient.

WHW was started in 1993 by two legal professionals who were survivors of domestic abuse and who faced the daunting task of rebuilding their professional wardrobes to return to the workforce. Since then, WHW has added a men’s division, expanded its focus to providing a full array of employment services including direct job placement and has provided services at no charge and with no obligation to more than 25,000 job seekers.

“WHW is so pleased to partner with the Orange County legal community through the 2nd Annual Suits for a Cause clothing drive,” said WHW Executive Director, Janie Wolicki. “All of the professional clothing donated through this effort will go directly to disadvantaged jobseekers. Our sincere thanks go to all who contribute to this drive.”
